SHORT-TERM BONDS ACTIVE AND STRONG DURING LAST WEEK

Many High-class Issues Traded in on a 5 Per Cent. Basis - Election Results Had Favorable Effect.

General satisfaction was expressed in financial circles today over the volume of business transacted during the last week. Short-term bonds were active and strong, with many of the higher class issues traded in on a 5 per cent, basis, while the new New York city issues advanced to new high records, the three-year notes selling at 103%, or on a 4.70 basis, while the one-year notes were traded in at 101% or on a 4.60 basis. These notes were taken only a short time ago by the bank syndicate on a 8 per cent. basis, with exchange at $5, the banks and city to share in any profit from exchange operations exceeding $2,000,000.

Since then the demand sterling has rielded to around 4.90 and would have pleided to around and would have been established far below that rate if it were not for the new rules regarding contraband promulgated by the British Government. Money has been established on a 8 per cent. basis for both call and time loans in New York and is in free

Election results had much to do with the development of strength which was recorded between Monday and Friday. In these three business days advances were recorded in all the issues in which there is active interest.

Dealings in listed stocks both on the curb and over the counter became more extensive, with United States Steel common moving up from 41 to 431/2. Propor-tionate gains were made in other issues. but this morning listed stocks were lower in New York, United States Steel being offered at 43%, with the supply apparently coming from some important sources. This confirmed the view that satisfaction over election results is not enough to sustain any display of strength, but that some development of more substance is neces-sary to act as an incentive for main-tained improvement, both in security values and business prospects.

TWO RAILROADS SEEK TO RETAIN WATER LINES

Southern and Central Pacific Ask Permission of Commerce Board. WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Hearing on the application of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific Railroads for per-mission to retain control of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and vessels owned by the lines operating on the Sacramento River was held by the Interstate Commerce Commission today. Under the Panama Canal act the Commission is vested with power to grant such permission to the carriers where, in its opinion, such ownership of boat lines does not stiffe competition.

Attorneys for the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific declared that competition on traffic between the Pacific and the Atlantic would best be maintained through their ownership of the water through their ownership of the water carriers, and that a separate ownership would only tend to increase the rates on transcontinental traffic. The Sacramento River lines were held to be necessary adjuncts of ferry freight.

STOCK PRICES HERE SHOW UP YERY WELL IN LIMITED TRADING

In Some Instances Transactions Have Been Made Above Minimum Figure Established by Exchange Committee.

Present prices of local stocks sold under the jurisdiction of the Special Committee of Five of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange are, in some instances, slightly above the minimum price at which the committee will allow sales, and, in some few cases, they are above the price at which the stock closed on July 30, the last day on which the Exchange was Brokers report that in many instances when the minimum price established by the committee is bid for a stock, sales are not made because the holder does not care to part with his security at the price, and holds off in the hope that prices may be better later on. This has occurred in several instances in Reading, the mini-mum price of which is ©.

Since trading was resumed under the direction of the special committee many companies have declared dividends, and these have been taken off the minimum price. In the case of the Pennsylvania Railroad two dividends have been declared since the Exchange closed, both of which have been taken off.

The total shipments in the month were 5,644,475 tons, as compared with 6,335,194 tons in October, 1913, an increase of 306,282 tons. The record shipments, made in October, 1913, were 6,665,321 tons, last month's shipments being only 20,845 tons below this amount. Deliveries will be nation-wide, the delivery prices being based upon the New York price less the cost of transportation from the point of delivery to New York.

WHEAT NERVOUS, WITH BULLISH TONE UNDERLYING TRADE

Lively Export Call on Chicago Board, With Similar Condition in Market for Corn.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 .- Wheat was neryous today, prices keeping within rather narrow limits. Speculative trade was comparatively light. There was an excellent export call here and at a number of other points. Underlying sentiment was bullish, affected by the persistent demand from abroad. It was asserted that the Italian Government has attempted to fill a buying order for 1,000,-600 bushels here, at Minneapolis and at Kansas City. Prices in the northwest ruled comparatively strong. Cash sales were £25,669 bushels. Futures closed %c. to %c. higher.

Corn was dult in a speculative way, but there was an excellent export call and a fair business was closed. Offerings of old corn for prompt shipment are far below the demand. Country sales of new to arrive are the smallest ever known at this season, largely due to the new Government grading and to the expectations of producers of a large de-mand later. Cash sales were 305,000 bushels. Futures closed 1/4 to 1/4c. higher. Oats kept within a narrower range of prices relatively than other grains. The market closed strong. There was a revival in the Eastern domestic call, and some significant inquiries on foreign account. Cash sales were 180,000 bushels. Futures closed ½ to %c. higher.

In provisions covering of a large specu-lative line of shorts was completed early, profit taking on the bulge resulted in quite a reaction. At the decline the absorption was good.

PRESENT PRICE OF COTTON LOWEST IN SIXTEEN YEARS

Averaged 6.3 Cents Per Pound on November 1; 13 Cents Last Year. WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 .- The market price of cotton at the present time is the lowest in 16 years, according to the Bureau of Crop Estimates of the Department of Agriculture in a statement issued today. In comparison with the prices paid 12 months ago, today's market value of the staple is less than one-half.

The statement follows: "The price paid on November I to producers of cotton averaged 6.3 cents per pound. A year ago the price was 13 cents per pound. This reduction in price represents a total shrinkage in the income of cotton farmiers for lint cotton of about $25,000,000. "The price of cotton seed on October to producers was about $15:25 per ton; a year ago the price was about $22 a ton. This reduction in price represents a shrinkage in income for the seed of about

These estimates allow for about 9 per cent, larger crop than last 'The price of lint cotton and cotton seed this year and a year ago thus indicate a total shrinkage in the income to cotton farmers of about $455,000,000.
